Triton, Hancock Krewes plan 80-unit extravaganza Tuesday

The Krewes of Triton will roll with its seventh annual carnival day parade along US-90 Mardi Gras Day Tuesday, leaving Our Shopping Center in Waveland at 2 p.m. and conclude at A&P Shopping Center in Bay St. Louis. Harmon Turan of Turan-Lane Chevrolet Company will reign as king. For the first time this year, six young ladies will serve with the all-male Krewes as princesses, and will be located on the reviewing stand during the parade. They will participate with the court at the supper dance and pageant.

"The ladies will participate throughout the year in all official functions of the krewe and advertise for the krewe in other area activities," said spokesman Russell Elliott.

The Krewes of Triton consists of citizens from Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Hancock County and adjacent areas, for the promotion of Carnival Day activities locally.

It involves the cooperation of all political units, city governments, county government, state agencies which includes Highway patrol, city police, fire departments, and mostly a host of interested volunteers from our area," Elliott explained.

"The main purpose is to furnish good, wholesome entertainment at home for the safety and enjoyment of all, without having to have dangerous trips to other areas to enjoy a real carnival day parade. It also stimulates turn-over money for the local merchants and draws visitors to our beautiful area of the Gulf Coast," Elliott reported.

"The Tuesday parade will include approximately 80 units, including 10 floats of Triton itself, besides the Captain's Floats and the King's float. The parade also incorporates the Krewes of Hancock, made up of individual entries of all type which follow the Krewes of Triton, and this year will number approximately 30 units. It is one of the larger parades of the Coast and has one of the longest routes, approximately seven miles," Elliott said. "The Krewes of Triton parade provides entertainment for the entire family and is the wrap-up of all carnival activities in Hancock County," Elliott said.

Coach claims harassment

HNC basketball issue sparks controversy

By RICH ADAMS

Allegations of "internal harassment and politics" were made during an emotion packed meeting of the Hancock County School Board Saturday morning.

Superintendent Billy Sills has been asked by the board to investigate alleged harassment against Hancock North Central Basketball Coach Roland Ladner, and also to investigate why a basketball jersey retired in 1961 is being used by the current team.

At Saturday's meeting the school board also passed a resolution naming Coach Ladner "Winningest Active Coach in the Nation," and reported a similar resolution is in the U.S. Senate promising Ladner national recognition for coaching teams which have won in excess of 800 games in the past 22 years. Some 39 school patrons, including present and former basketball team members crowded into the board room awards, and everyone is asked to join in the fun by masking for the parade and join in the fun," Elliott reported.

As the Parade rolls the captain, the king and the krewe showers spectators with throws and dubs, and King Triton VII invites all to join in the familiar cry of "Throw Me Something Mister."

Saturday as the allegations of harassment were discussed. One school patron, a former HNC basketball player and currently a state basketball official, demanded the board live up to campaign promises or resign their seats on the board.

The discussion began when a petition was presented to the board by five members of the 1959-1960 state championship basketball team

Landscape clinic set for Friday

By ELLIS CUEVAS

John Davis, area Extension Horticulturist will head a landscape clinic Friday, Feb. 22 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at 405 Necessaire Ave., Bay St. Louis.

County Agent John Smith said "The program will consist of preparing a home landscape plan, site preparation, selecting planting material, foundation plants and fertilization care."

The cooperative extension service-sponsored program is open to the public and Smith said that Davis, the area horticulturist for the Gulf Coast, will be here to answer any questions pertaining to landscaping.

Smith added, "If you as a home owner would like to learn more about home grounds beautification, you should attend this meeting, as it is open to the public and is free of charge."

"A large number of homes have been constructed in Hancock County during the past few years. Many of these homes need landscaping to enhance their values. This will be a good opportunity for the owners to receive expert information on proper landscaping," the county agent commented.

The program will be conducted in the Extension Auditorium, of the Agriculture and Welfare building on Necessaire Avenue.

Bay VFD plans reorganization

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The Bay St. Louis Volunteer Fire Department will hold a reorganizational meeting Wednesday, Feb. 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the Bay Fire Station on Old Spanish Trail at Booker Street.

Fire Chief Andrew Lizana reports Richard Peneguy will serve as chief and Robert Gavagnie is to be training officer of the volunteer company.

Lizana reports among those in the volunteer company are Anthony Alexis, Don San Filippo, Ronald Collins, Marty Blacktop, Richard Pate, Jimmy Rutherford, Tommy Godwin Jr., John Wilkerson and Billy Fields. Chief Lizana said members of the regular fire department have attended classes at Diamondhead Feb. 4 thru 7 for training in breathing apparatus, arson detection, excavation, (use of 'Jaws of Life').

The classes were conducted by Robert (Bob) Hicks, state instructor, and were three hours each night. Among those in attendance from the Bay regular fire department were Gerald Price III, Alphonse Sheppard, Arthur Favre, Cliff Burch, Shelton Bermond and Gary Maurice.

Volunteer firemen Ronald Collins and Marty Blacktop also attended the fire classes at Diamondhead.

During the week of Feb. 10-15, the state fire offices conducted classes in Pass Christian on chemistry of fire, salvage and overhaul, flammable liquids and breathing apparatus.

The majority of Bay firemen attended these night sessions Lizana reported.

"It is important for firemen to know as much as possible in fighting fires, and I plan on sending all the regular firemen to every class possible," commented the new chief.

"With the talk of a new fire station in the Cedar Point area, I want to have every fireman qualified in every area of fire fighting," Lizana said.

"The reorganization of the volunteer department will also be a big aid to the community. I would like to welcome anyone interested in becoming a volunteer fireman to come to the meeting Wednesday night. We have an experienced person as chief of the volunteer department and his is also a very qualified training officer," Lizana allowed.

Arson suspected again in Waveland shed fire

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Waveland Fire Department suspects arson in a Tuesday night fire which completely destroyed a storage shed next to a home in the 200 block of St. Joseph Street owned by Anita Leblaux of New Orleans.

This is the third Waveland fire this week in which fire department officials have suspected arson.

Sunday evening and early Monday morning two suspected arsons eventually destroyed a home at 314 Favre Street in Waveland owned by Frederick Cannon of Bay St. Louis which was renting to Grady and Cleo Willis at the time of the fire.

"Samples taken from the remains of both buildings have been sent to the Harrison County Crime Lab in Gulfport for analysis," said Waveland Fire Chief Kenneth Fayard Friday morning.

"We received a call at about 7 p.m. Tuesday from Mrs. Lee Ferrell, who lives about a block from where the shed burned, reporting the building was on fire. We also received another call about the shed fire from an unidentified woman," Fireman Reginald Fayard said Friday morning.

"When we arrived at the scene of the shed fire the building was completely involved in flames. We confined the blaze to the shed and kept the tall grass around the shed from burning, which could have spread the fire to other structures in the area," Fireman Fayard explained.

"It took about an hour for Waveland Firemen Orville Ferrell, Lee Ferrell, Glen Jackson, Anthony Alexis, Don McIntyre, John Perkins and myself to extinguish the blaze," Fireman Fayard added.

"It took a while to extinguish mattresses and magazines which were smoldering after the fire was extinguished," Fireman Fayard added.

"We found signs of arson in the shed as we did in the Favre Street home," said County Fire Investigator Ed Firloux.

Fireman Fayard said after the shed fire a chunk of glasslike material was found which glowed hot for quite some time after the blaze was extinguished and had to be doused several times with water before it was cool enough to touch.

"The chunk of glasslike material was also sent to the crime lab for analysis," said County Fire Investigator Jay Marsh.

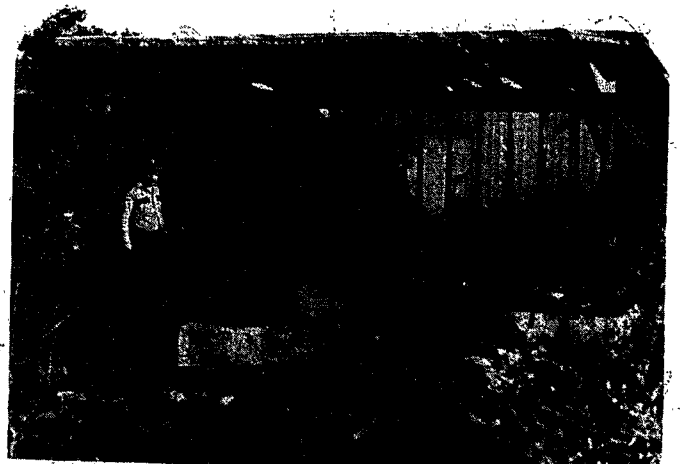

Chief Fayard said the home next to the shed on St. Joseph Street was unoccupied at the time of the fire. The Favre Street home was also not occupied when two fires eventually destroyed the house.

"Waveland Fire Marshall Lee Ferrell and Griloux and Marsh of the County Fire Investigating Squad are investigating both fires," Chief Fayard said.

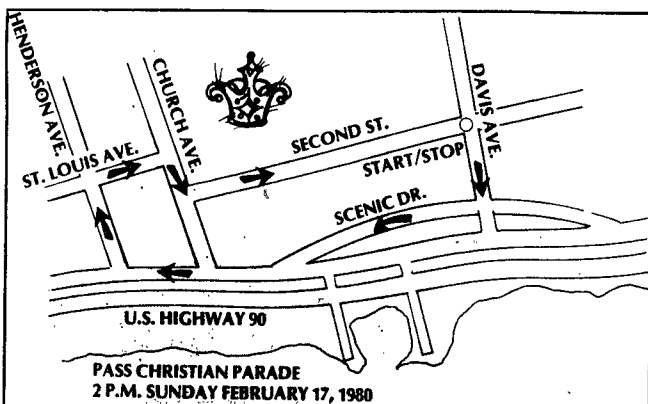

State Fire Marshall Norman Cowart is also investigating the Favre Street fire.

County school teachers attend energy workshop

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Five Hancock County School District elementary teachers attended an energy workshop sponsored by the Mississippi League of Woman Voters at the school district offices in Bay St. Louis Tuesday.

"The materials I've given teachers can be used with regular course work and will teach various methods of energy conservation," said Mrs. Michael Sullivan of Hattiesburg, a league volunteer.

Sullivan, a former history teacher, distributed work packets to teachers and explained how to utilize the material in their classes.

"The material is designed for first through seventh grade students, but I've shown teachers how much of the seventh grade level material can also be used in the eighth and ninth grades," Sullivan reported.

"Mississippi does not teach energy conservation in its schools and the Mississippi Department of Education says it doesn't have funds for a school energy program. So the league decided to distribute the materials to school systems who request it as our statewide service project," Sullivan stated.

"The Department of Energy (DOE) supplies us with free materials. The DOE also gave our organization $1,200 so we could duplicate some of the energy materials and pay our travel expenses, but this money has run out so league volunteers are now donating travel and printing expenses," Sullivan explained.

"We are sponsoring workshops all over the state with my area being south Mississippi," Sullivan added.

Hancock County teachers attending the workshop were Cathy Wilderhold from Long Beach; Evelyn M. Ferguson of Perkins; Janice M. Ladner of Pass Christian; Lauren F. Turcotte of Waveland; and Michael Hobby of Pass Christian.

Sullivan also urged teachers to write for additional energy conservation material from Dr. Jack Carrol, Mississippi Energy Extension Center, P. O. Box 5406, Mississippi State, Miss. 39762.

Hamilton and Stankard are longtime friends of more than 25 years. Stankard was a house guest of Hamilton for his stay on the Coast. Hamilton said that he and his wife had visited the Stankard during the Christmas Holidays at their New Jersey residence. (Staff photo—Ellis Cuevas).

YOUR HEALTH

Dr. Wm. L. Powell

Our newspaper space is limited, otherwise we would reproduce many more stories of marvelous recoveries...THE NATURAL WAY...many times after other methods had failed.

The following is one man's story, so others will know the great benefit of chiropractic care.

"For twenty years I have suffered from a malformed lumbar vertebra, which is also arthritic; also I have a curvature in the cervical area of my spine. At times I couldn't bend over or sit down or arise from a chair without extreme, almost crippling pain. Medication relieved some of the pain temporarily, but the condition remained the same. I have been told that I shall 'just have to learn to live with it.' After my last prolonged attack, I decided to go to Dr. Powell, a chiropractor. After an examination, which included X-rays, he concluded he could give me adjustments which would help the condition. From the first adjustment, I began to have noticeable relief. Now, after two months of treatment, I have no pain, the curvature is being gradually corrected, and I now walk erectly and with a normal energetic pace. The whole idea of chiropractic makes sense to me."

Magnificent oaks on Pineville
Presbyterian Church grounds

Family's three generations received in Pineville church

By JOE PILET
"O Be joyful in the Lord, all ye lands: Serve the Lord with gladness, and come before his presence with a song," (Psalm 100).

There was joy and gladness manifest in the historic little Pineville Presbyterian Church of Pass Christian on a recent Sunday, when the Reverend George Kirker performed a three-fold service including the christening of his grand-daughter, Alletha Christine; the receiving into the fellowship of the church his wife who transferred her membership from the Wiggins Presbyterian Church; and the baptism of his son-in-law,

Jack Brewton whose name
now appears on the Pineville Church rolls together with that of his wife, the former Nancy Alletha Kirker, whose membership transfer was also accepted on this occasion.

The Reverend Mr. Kirker has served as a Presbyterian minister for 37 years, and for the last year and a half has provided ministerial services in the Pineville area.

Sponsoring Alletha
Christine were Mr. and Mrs.

Wayne Brewton of Pensacola, Fla.
Mr. and Mrs. Jack
Brewton, parents of Alletha, who make their home in Denison, Iowa are now in Karlshub, Germany on a tour of duty with the United States Army.

Floral arrangements used in the church included both white and red bract poinsettias, characteristic of the season of Christ Mass, and appropriate for conveying the message of christening services.

In the next few days we will be into the final swing of Mardi Gras, 1980.

This afternoon we have the annual Pass Christian Parade which usually has numerous floats and marching groups. It has always been a nice parade and can be enjoyed by all.

Tuesday, Mardi Gras Day, of course the Krewe of Triton will roll down US-90 from Our Shopping Center to the Bay Mall Shopping Center at Dunbar.

We sure hope each of you will have an opportunity of viewing Triton's parade as well as the Pass parade.

A serious thing we would like to mention is the fact that every year we have to report an accident of some sort happening during the parades.

These accidents usually are always caused by someone being careless. We hope each of you will be careful during the last few days of Mardi Gras and avoid all accidents.

We know for some Mardi Gras is a season to celebrate and if you get into the spirits, the bottle type, please do not drive, have someone sober return you home.

Happy Mardi Gras!

In talking to 'Big John' Rutherford Thursday night, we understand the turnout on Wednesday almost looked like old time for the blood drawing.

We are glad the number of people offering blood took a big jump over the last drawing.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank each of you for your contribution and also those who helped during the drawing.

It was good to see my longtime friend and classmate Dave Treutel appointed to the 1980 Committee On Development For Neighborhood and Smaller City Institutions of the United States League of Savings Associations.

Dave, the president of Peoples Federal Savings and Loan Association in Bay St. Louis and Waveland, was appointed by Edwin B. Brooks Jr., president of the League.

We understand the League represents more than 4,400 saving and loan associations throughout the nation and feel it is a high honor to have someone from Hancock County as a representative.

Congratulations Dave!

While the time is upon us, we feel it best mentioned, when talking about Mardi Gras, there is more to it than just the parades.

Folks new to our area are amazed by the many balls which are held during the season.

It would be hard to trace the many groups who just have a ball and not a parade.

Many hours of hard work go into the planning and construction of the themes for the balls and of course the parades. We contend we are fortunate to be involved in this amazing celebration each year. Our parades in many instances compare with the big ones held in New Orleans.

Some of our Mardi Gras Ball are even better than some in the big city.

Many of our people are to be complemented for their outstanding work.

We know the ladies of Nereds are really the ones who led in rejuvenating the Mardi Gras parades in Hancock County.

MISSISSIPPI ECONOMIC COUNCIL
THE STATE
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Mississippi Economic Council this week urged the Legislature to consider the reorganization of county road operations as a means of providing more revenue for highway construction and maintenance.

MEC President Benton Cain of Jackson explained that, with few exceptions, Mississippi counties operate five separate road districts. Each county supervisor, Cain explained, has his own labor force, equipment, budget, and method of building and maintaining county roads.

"This system of five road departments per county is inefficient and is costing the taxpayer millions of dollars which could be put to good use on the state's highways," said Cain. "A 1978 Department of Transportation study revealed that the national average of highway user tax revenue going to the counties for roads was about 17 percent of the total. Mississippi in 1978 distributed 27.6 percent—$47.6 million—to counties of the $172 million received from taxes on highway users in the state."

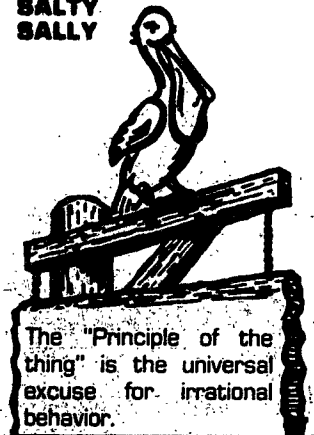

Studies conducted by or for the Legislature in 1949, 1961, 1970, 1971, and 1972 reveal that the traditional organization of county road management in the state does not provide for the most efficient and productive expenditures of tax dollars earmarked for county road purposes. The latter three studies revealed that county with central control procedures, where the five districts are combined into one, tend to reduce the inefficiency, illegality, and other undesirable elements that thrive in the other counties."

"Presently, the Legislature and the new administration are searching for a method of providing better highways, roads, and streets for the state. It is for this reason MEC believes that the state can ill afford to continue practices which fail to produce maximum return on the tax dollar," said Cain.

"The Council believes that mandatory management of county roads under the unit system would mean more efficient use of dollars while improving the administration and maintenance of the county road system," he said.

SALTY SALLY

NECESSARY EYESORE - This warning sign, located on the beach at the foot of Ullman Avenue in Bay St. Louis, was recently erected by United Gas Pipe Line Company. The large billboard facing the water is to warn boaters of an underwater pipeline. It may not enhance the natural beauty of the beach, but is necessary to avoid a possible line break by boaters snagging their anchors on the pipe.

Senator Thad Cochran

SPECIAL REPORT:
The FBI 'Sting'

A very serious matter has unfolded in recent days involving the FBI and Justice Department investigation of corruption among public officials and some persons claiming to have influence with them.

I am referring to the FBI "sting" or ABCAM operation which the Justice Department informs us has been underway for about a year and a half. Although no official charges have been brought against any individuals, news reports and Justice Department spokesmen indicate that some members of Congress and local officials in several states are targets of this investigation.

I applaud the FBI for trying to uncover corruption, and as a member of the Senate Ethics Committee, I have urged our panel to proceed immediately with an independent inquiry into the facts as they might relate to any member of the Senate.

It is our Constitutional duty, and responsibility, to look into any case when there is evidence to support serious allegations of illegal conduct against a United States Senator.

The American people also have a right to know what the facts are. They have every right to expect public institutions, particularly the Congress, to ferret out wrongdoing and uphold the public trust which is the cornerstone of our Constitutional form of government.

Unfortunately, the issues of the public's right to know, and the power of Congress to act, are being obscured by legalistic arguments.

The Justice Department, for example, has asked Congress, in testimony before the Ethics committees of both Senate and House, to withhold any inquiry or investigation for several months, to allow it time to take its case to federal grand juries and then to trial if indictments are secured.

Others, including some members of Congress, have raised a hue and cry over the issue of "entrapment," in regard to the tactics used by the FBI in the so-called ABCAM investigation.

I do not agree with either the Justice Department, in its plea for Congress to withhold action, or those criticizing the FBI for its "sting" operation. It is regrettable that sources within the Justice Department or FBI apparently revealed information of this investigation prematurely and possibly jeopardized the outcome of some cases, but I think it is high time we saw some hard-nosed investigation and prosecuting of those who illegally use their public office for personal gain.

At meetings of the Senate Ethics Committee, I have suggested that we take action promptly, fairly, and on an impartial basis, so that a full report can be made to the American people as soon as possible.

A special, independent investigation should proceed at once to obtain whatever evidence there is of any wrongdoing by any United States Senator. I am convinced this can be done without jeopardizing in any way the work of the Justice Department as it proceeds to complete its investigation and prosecution of all those who may have violated federal criminal laws.

I will not judge any case before hearing the evidence. However, it is my strong conviction at this point that, if members of Congress or the Senate are guilty of accepting large sums of money for political favors, they ought to be sent to jail, and they should also be kicked out of office.

Corruption in public offices cannot be tolerated. To refuse to punish those who are guilty is like condoning the crime, and this undermines the public's confidence in the honor and integrity of our institutions of government.

As your United States Senator, I reaffirm my pledge to you that I will uphold the public trust you have bestowed on me and carry out my duties and responsibilities as a member of the Senate Ethics Committee.

New Commission To Enforce Ethics Law

by Jere Naah

Mississippians now have a state agency charged with the responsibility of investigating public officials who violate the law and engage in conflicts of interest. The Mississippi Ethics Commission, which was created by the 1979 Legislature, has been meeting since January and has hired Larry Burris as executive director.

The Commission has jurisdiction over every elected official and public employee in every state, county, and municipal office, including all three branches of government: executive, legislative, judicial. If you believe a public official is violating the law, you have a right to send a complaint to the Commission. Once received, the Commission must refer the complaint to the appropriate body for investigation, and then if it is not satisfied with the results, the Commission can conduct its own inquiry.

Present Mississippi law prohibits public officials and employees from engaging in the following types of activities: bribery, fraud, embezzlement (theft of tax funds), extortion (using their official position for personal gain), approving a contract in which they have any interest, and receiving any money from any person as an inducement to approving a contract or to the purchase, sale, or lease of land. In addition, there are many laws which specifically prohibit local officials from being financially interested in contracts or other business that comes before their local government body. Almost all of these offenses carry penalties of prison sentences, fines, and removals from office.

The Mississippi Ethics Commission will be performing another important task aimed at preventing conflicts of interest: an official's public responsibilities and his or her private interests. The new ethics law requires all elected state, county, and local officials and certain appointed officials and employees to disclose annually the following information about their personal financial holdings: sources and types of income, business interests and investments, retirement, representation before certain government bodies, and income from public boards and commissions. Candidates for public office will also be required to file these statements before running for office.

This information will first be made public on May 1 of this year, and then every year thereafter. It is intended to give voters more information about a public official in order for his or her constituents to determine if the public official is conducting business in the public's interest or with an eye toward enriching his or her own private interests.

The Commission has eight members who are appointed for four-year staggered terms, two each by the Governor, Lt. Governor, Speaker of the House of Representatives, and Chief Justice of the Mississippi Supreme Court. The newly appointed members are Walter Brown, former state representative from Natchez; James R. Carter, a Rolling Fork farmer; Gale Denley, an Ole Miss journalism professor from Brookhaven; Herbert G. Rogers Jr., of New Albany; Clarie Collins Harvey, a Jackson funeral home director; Jackson attorney E.L. Brunini Sr.; former state Rep. Tullius Brady of Brookhaven; and Amy Jean Rhoden, a church librarian from Columbia.

The Commission has the power to conduct investigations as mentioned above, to go to court to recover public funds unlawfully taken by any public official, to hire attorneys to act as special prosecutors, and to issue subpoenas to aid in their investigations.

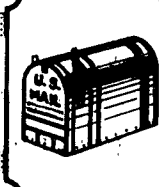

If you want more information about the Commission, or if you wish to make a complaint, write to Mr. E.L. Brunini Sr., Chairman, Mississippi Ethics Commission, P.O. Box 119, Jackson, MS 39205.

Common Cause/Mississippi lobbied for the creation of the ethics commission in 1979 as part of its ongoing program of working to increase the openness and accountability of government. The purpose of the new law is well summarized in its preamble: "The Legislature hereby declares it essential to the proper operation of democratic government that public officials and employees be independent and impartial... that public office not be used for private gain... that there be public confidence in the integrity of government."

Establishment of the Mississippi Ethics Commission and enactment of the financial disclosure requirements are the first steps toward ensuring that public policy and government decisions are made in the public's interest. And equally important is action taken by Mississippi citizens who want improved government. Making use of the Mississippi Ethics Commission is one way to do just that.

Jere Naah is State Director for Common Cause/Mississippi, a nonpartisan, citizens' lobby.

LETTERS To The Editor

North Bay PTO legal action termed 'justified and necessary'

February 7, 1980
Editor
The Sea Coast
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:

I am writing on behalf of the North Bay Elementary Parent-Teacher Organization of Bay Saint Louis, Mississippi, a member of the National Committee for Citizens in Education's Parents' Network.

The National Committee for Citizens in Education is an organization that encourages the responsible involvement of parents in the decisions which affect their children's education.

We support parents in working with the schools toward quality education. We also strongly advocate school administrators' openness with parents in the executive of public school business.

We believe that this mutual trust and openness and working together brings about positive results in the education of children.

An example of the results of such openness, and trust is the Salt Lake City Schools, where Don Thomas, the superintendent, has moved toward school-based on management throughout the system.

Councils at each school, composed of parents, teachers, and the principal, make decisions that substantially affect their school's programs and policies.

Information is freely available to parents. Indeed, parents are a part of the deciding team.

Policies of openness, such as in Salt Lake City, result in cooperation of school personnel and citizens, and better education for children.

We have been following the situation in Bay Saint Louis with interest.

Parents are refused access of the school's public documents if their reasons for wanting to see them are considered "frivolous" by the superintendent.

Parents are refused access to certain board meetings, and are denied placement on board meeting agenda. This situation seems not only contrary to a spirit of openness and trust, but also in direct violation of the rights of parents and citizens.

We urge parents to work cooperatively with school personnel to make their voices heard. When this approach is not successful, then legal action is sometimes justified and necessary. In this instance, we feel that is the case.

Sincerely,
Carl L. Marburger

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions
About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

I've decided not to buy from any stores that advertise, for their prices are bound to be lower if they don't run up big advertising bills. I Am Trying To Save A Buck.

Dear IATTSAB: If the stores that don't advertise were all in the same area they would probably go broke in a week. And if they are in the same town, you will have a sick town.

For aggressive merchants complement each other and the composite of business makes for a local marketplace.

Advertising is necessary for success—it is a major economic force and to ignore or fight it is absurd for merchants or customers.

If you truly get lower prices at a store that doesn't promote, it is most likely for other reasons—less variety and selection, lower overhead (other than advertising), etc.

For under the same economic conditions the store that successfully promotes, can, and usually will, have a lower mark-up due to the higher volume of sales.

For percentage of profit is going to vary from one operation to the next. But the greater the volume the lower the percentage will be.

Furthermore the volume seller usually can buy for less and this means even more savings.

You may enjoy your crusade for a while, but in most abstinence movements it will probably become progressively less attractive—particularly as you feel yourself slipping out of the mainstream of the local market.

You can occasionally find little stores that due to low overhead have low mark-ups—but you and they also miss out in new merchandise and special promotions.

So do as you like, but get your reasons straight. There are low markup outlets, but they aren't necessarily non-advertisers. Or for that matter the opposite true.

Remember the order of things—ads bring more sales, more sales allow volume buying and lower markups; more sales and lower markups allow for more attractive prices; and on it goes.

State's gasoline prices among nation's highest

Mississippi's average price for a gallon of full-service premium gasoline, $1.273, was the highest reported in the nation, according to the American Automobile Association's February Fuel Gauge Survey.

The prices of other grades of fuel in the state also were among the highest nationwide.

For the second straight month, gasoline prices in the state have risen dramatically, as reflected by an average increase of 7.3 cents per gallon in just four weeks.

Motorists in Mississippi are paying approximately 48 cents a gallon more this year than last year at this time.

The average cost of a gallon of gasoline in Mississippi is $1.245. The biggest increase was 8.3 cents in self service unleaded and premium unleaded.

Availability statistics gathered by AAA indicate that fuel supplies will be good throughout February, with only a few areas showing high percentages of station closings at night and on weekends.

Stations contacted in Mississippi report that 10 percent will be open 24 hours; 72 percent will be closed by 8 p.m. on weekdays; 65 percent will be closed by 6 p.m. on Saturday, and 71 percent will not open on Sundays.

Only one percent was limiting sales and seven percent reported being out of at least one grade of gas.

regarding a number which had been retired by the board in May of 1961. The team, known as 'The Necaise Boys,' won the state championship two years in a row and as a result the board retired number 44, belonging to Douglas Necaise.

The former team reported that the jersey had been removed from a trophy case and said that number is currently being worn by Brian Arcement.

The board authorized Sills to investigate the issue and report his findings at the next regular meeting March 3.

Coach Ladner asked why he was not informed of the petition, adding "You could have extended me the courtesy to let me know to come to this meeting." Board President Woodrow Ladner said he did not notify the coach of the issue because of the District VIII Class A Tournament being played in Pass Christian.

"I expected to be playing in the final game of that tournament tonight. I try to teach kids to keep their minds on the ball game," Coach Ladner told the board.

The coach then accused the board of bringing up items which effect play of the basketball team during district tournament time.

"Every year I have things come up before the board like this just before district tournament time," Roland Ladner said.

"Why wait until district tournament time to tell me things like this. It is not good for the team," the coach said.

Accusations of bringing demoralizing matters to the basketball team before the board just before tournament time were echoed by School Patron John Ladner.

John Ladner then told the board the coach's name is being considered by the U.S. Senate for 'Winningest Coach in the Nation.'

He then accused the board of bringing the matter up at the wrong time.

"You are just trying to clean up old linen which should have been cleaned up long ago," John Ladner said.

"To me Coach Ladner is not just a basketball coach, he is a classroom teacher. The administration and every part of the school system has not supported the basketball team," he added.

"I hope you straighten out your priorities," he said.

The HNC basketball team was defeated Friday night in the semi-finals of the district tournament by East Central, 57-53.

One teacher reported to the board that many Hancock fans were making obscene gestures to the referees and booing game officials.

She added the fans booed when the official stopped the game just as the Hawks were to score after a player broke his leg and was being carried from the court on a stretcher.

Mike Ladner, a basketball referee and former HNC student and ballplayer, then made an emotional address to the board, calling for resignation of board members if they did not live up to campaign promises.

"I appeal to the board... if you came into office on a promise and cannot fulfill that promise, you should resign your commission," Mike Ladner said.

"Get the politics out of the system before you kill our kids," he continued.

"Our kids need a decent education. I attended Hancock North Central and when I attempted to go to Pearl River Junior College, I could not compete academically with the other students," Ladner said, his voice cracking at times.

"People are pitted against one another in the system in political plays," he continued.

"I heard politicians said 'Vote for me and I will get rid of Roland Ladner and others.' If people in the system are doing a good job, let them alone," Ladner said, banging his hand on a desk top.

"I want our kids educated. I have sisters going to schools in this system, and I have a kid who will be going here. I want the undue harassment stopped and I want politics out of the school system," he added.

Coach Ladner then explained he teaches math four periods and then coaches two periods.

"I have given 22 years to Hancock County and rural Mississippi. I have cheated my family because basketball came first," Coach Ladner told the board.

"I don't want to leave Hancock County, but I am being harassed to death," he added.

Douglas Necaise then told the board he heard rumors his name was brought up in the lockerroom before the game Friday night.

"I heard my name was brought up in the lockerroom about not being loyal to the team," Necaise said.

Byron Ladner, presently on the basketball team, then told the board he considered Coach Ladner "a great teacher, coach, and spiritual leader."

"I consider it a great privilege to play under Roland Ladner. He is not only a great coach, he has also served as a great teacher, a substitute daddy, and has directed me in being a Christian," Byron Ladner told the board.

"He is now being named the best coach in the nation, and the administration is not helping him at all. He does not have one off period to work on basketball," he continued.

"The administration is cutting his throat when it should be proud of him. Most of the time you hear about national recognition for coaches from New York or other big cities. This is happening right here in Hancock County," Ladner added.

"The administration is out to cut basketball to a stop here," Byron Ladner told the board.

"Coach Ladner is a man of courage, and if you don't take the pressure off of him you will lose him," he added.

Roland Ladner then told the board he promised God to coach and teach in rural Mississippi after he graduated from college.

"I went to Sellers High School when we had wartime teachers, some 80-years-old. When I went on to college, I found out I had to make up five years of education," the coach told the board.

"I then promised God to give 25 years to rural Mississippi," he continued.

"I think a coach should do more than coach, and a teacher should do more than just teach subjects," Ladner told the board.

"I always emphasize the game of life is the same as the game of basketball, with victories and defeats, ups and downs. If a player goes on and gets married, he will know not to leave his wife and family the first time a problem comes up," he continued.

"I could have left long ago for the money, but I have obligated myself to rural Mississippi," Ladner said.

Ladner then told the board that if it thinks him incompetent it has the right not to recommend renewal of his contract.

"I don't ask for any guarantees, all I ask is the harassment be stopped. Billy Sills said he promises to stop the harassment. He is not affiliated with these little political groups, selfishly trying to secure what they want," the coach told the board.

"I believe I am doing what is right. If I do wrong, I do not deserve your respect. I earn respect, I do not demand it," he added.

Board Member Louie Ladner moved to have Sills investigate the allegations of 'internal affairs' and report back to the board.

The motion was seconded by Monvel Cuevas and unanimously approved by the board.

In other business, the board:

—Approved paying the Pass Christian School District $4,164 for seven Hancock County students who attend Pass Christian schools in a hearing consortium for the handicapped;

—Approved beginning adult education classes at HNC;

—Hired Jan Renee White as special ed teacher at Silver Creek School for the Handicapped for the remainder of the school term; and —Created a position for an assistant bus mechanic.

Sheriff's raid nets 16 lbs of marijuana

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson reported the arrest of four persons late Saturday evening netted over 16 pounds of marijuana from a Lakeshore residence.

Sheriff Peterson said the arrest were made at the residence of Dale Lusich, 22, Rt. 2 Box 353, Bay St. Louis.

The four persons arrested, were Lusich, Jenette Britton, 22, Rt. 2 Box 353, Bay St. Louis; Eddie Schultze, 22, General Delivery, Pearl River, La.; and Kenneth Williams, 20, 1117 Waveland Ave., Waveland, Peterson said.

Peterson reported a total of $400 in cash on a table and also a 44 Magnum revolver were also involved in the raid at the residence.

"We have been investigating the residence for sometime and felt today would be a good time to secure a search warrant from Judge Lee Klein," Peterson commented.

"Lusich and Ms. Britton will be charged with the alleged possession with the intent to distribute marijuana and will be placed under a $15,000 bond," Peterson said.

"The other two will have to be talked to, before we decided their charges, as we do not know if they were totally aware of the amount of marijuana was at the residence," Peterson commented.

Peterson said that Investigators Alvin Ladner and Delbert Seay, and Auxiliary Deputy Mark Ohman made the raid with him.

ASCS Hancock-Pearl River

All beef producers registered to vote in the upcoming Beef Research and Information Order, will be able to vote Feb. 19-22 at the Pearl River - Hancock county SDCS Office.

According to Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River - Hancock County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Office, the program could become effective if at least 50 percent of those registered to vote in referendum vote and vote in favor of the order.

If the order is approved, a beef board composed of up to 68 beef producers would be appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture to administer the order.

This board would collect assessments, and conduct beef research and information programs.

Gennin said assessments would be made through a deduction by the buyer each time cattle are sold. Slaughterers would collect and send assessments to the beef board at the time of slaughter.

The final assessment would include the accumulated total of assessments paid by all owners of the cattle. The assessment rate could not exceed two-tenths of one percent of the sale price of cattle for the first two years of the program.

At the two-tenths of one percent level, about $40 million would be collected annually.

The county executive director emphasized that February 22, 1980, is the final day to vote in the referendum. To be able to vote, a person must register at the ASCS office now or by February 6.

REGIONAL MEETINGS
The Soil and Water Resources Conservation Act of 1977 (Public Law 95-192) directs the Secretary of Agriculture to make an appraisal of the nation's soil and water resources and develop a Soil and Water Conservation Program based on the needs shown in the appraisal.

This appraisal will provide congress with information needed to determine what kind of conservation program is needed in this county.

Public meetings have been held in each county in Mississippi and a statewide meeting was held in Jackson to get input from the public.

Before this National Appraisal is completed, the public will again be given an opportunity to make their input into the appraisal.

There will be 18 Regional Public Meetings on the RCA Appraisal held at key locations throughout the county. One of these meetings will be held in Jackson, Mississippi, on February 21.

This meeting will be held at the Ramada Inn-Metrocenter in Jackson. Two sessions will be held. The afternoon session will begin at 2 P.M. and the evening session will begin at 7:30 P.M.

Governor proclaims Future Farmers week

February 17-23 has been proclaimed National Future Farmers of America (FFA) Week in Mississippi by Governor William Winter.

More than 12,000 vocational agriculture students in the state are 201 FFA chapters.

Organized in 1928, the FFA promotes leadership, cooperation and citizenship and is an integral part of the vocational agriculture program.

Preparing young people to serve American agriculture is a goal of FFA and vocational agriculture.

The agriculture industry offers diverse career opportunities for students with interests in horticulture, crops, livestock, agribusiness, marketing, sales, chemistry, taxes, law, mechanics, vet medicine, plant genetics, soil science, conservation, accounting, personnel management, or landscaping. The theme for this year's FFA week—"Preparing for Progress"—is based on the basic principle behind the vocational agriculture education program—learning by doing.

FFA is one of the student organizations sponsored by the Vocational and Technical Division of the State Department of Education.

BUSINESS SIGN—A herd of cattle near the Ladner Farms' office building behind their sign on Hwy. 53 in north Hancock Crossing. County illustrates one aspect of the operation based in Nacaise Crossing.

ENSHALLAH RANCH—The cattle center at Enshallah Ranch is an integral part of Ladner Farms' cattle operation where cattle are loaded and unloaded, weighed, segregated, vaccinated and wormed.

Six-county farm based in Nacaise Crossing

BY WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Cresting one of the rolling hills north of Nacaise Crossing, a towering, automated feed mill predominates the horizon over the 2,000-acre Enshallah Ranch, just a part of the six-county, multi-million dollar Ladner Farms operation headquartered in Hancock County.

Enshallah has some 1,000 cows which are bred to Brangus, Hereford or Beefmaster bulls and their calves are winter grazed and sold as yearlings.

This Texas-size ranching operation is located at the Pearl River County-Hancock County line and is part of Ladner Farms' 10,000-acre farming and ranching enterprise.

The combined new, plush offices and extensively equipped work shop for the Ladner Farms operation is located just south of the Hancock and Pearl River county line on the west side of Hwy. 53.

Ladner Farms encompasses 7,200 acres of soybeans, 2,500 acres for cattle production and 300 acres of corn in about six south Mississippi counties.

"We now own about 5,000 acres and lease another 5,000 acres to round out the operation. Our farming activities are in Jefferson Davis, Stone, Perry, Pearl River, Harrison, and Hancock Counties," said Dickie Joe Ladner, owner of Ladner Farms.

Ladner Farms employs 15 people with Gery Cravens managing cattle operations and Tommy Ellett managing crops. Carol Magers is comptroller and office manager, and Joan Cravens is secretary.

"We work together here like one big family," Carol Magers said.

"We don't necessarily punch a clock, but we do what work has to be done when it's needed," Carol added.

In addition to her job as comptroller and office manager, Carol also is responsible for actually weighing cattle before they go to market.

"My idea of farm management is to first hire good people, place responsibility on them, pay them well and let them get the job done. When this farm makes a profit, the people who work on it share in it in the form of year-end bonuses," Ladner explained.

Ladner, 34, is from the Riceville Community in Harrison County and was involved with 4-H farming when he was a boy.

He began his own farming enterprise in 1968 by buying a tractor and some equipment he used for custom land preparation, soybean farming, hay cutting and hay baling for farmers.

"I intended then to work my way into farming. At that time, I was working for someone else about 90 percent of the time. Now, only about five percent of our farm operation is custom work," Ladner stated.

Hurricane Camille helped Ladner expand his operation, in 1969, by destroying most of the tung tree orchards in south Mississippi. The disaster made hundreds of acres of land available to the young farming entrepreneur to lease and buy for farming development.

"We started growing soybeans about 1970. This diversification allows us to make the best use of our land. We use the steeper land for our cattle operation and plant the fields best suited for row crops to soybeans," Ladner said.

"The two crops work well together in our area because we can overseed the soybean fields to ryegrass for winter grazing. Last year we overseeded about 5,000 acres of soybean land by plane when the soybean leaves began to turn yellow. The ryegrass was about six inches high when we combined the beans," Ladner explained.

"About 8,000 acres are overseeded each year for winter grazing for the cattle and calves," Ladner added. Ladner Farms also has a three to four-week preconditioning program in which cattle are put on a high protein ration and hay, and placed in a natural environment. For about 12 hours the cattle are rested after shipping. The calves are assembled and wormed, vaccinated, castrated if needed, dehorned, given an antibiotic and turned to pasture until they are shipped to buyers.

"Most of the cattle go to feedlots in the Panhandle area of Texas and last year we turned out about 10,000 head in the preconditioning program," Ladner said.

"A broker buys calves for me year-round. Usually we are looking for mismanaged cattle that need 'straightening out' before going to a feedlot. However, we buy any calves that we feel are a good deal," Ladner explained.

"We watch the market for the kind of cattle that's in demand and usually have them sold before we finish conditioning them. If we have to, we'll pay a premium to get fresh cattle. We don't want stale cattle," Ladner added.

Ladner recalls how difficult it was for him to locate lending agencies for expansion of his farming ventures and said, "I didn't have anything but a little machinery for collateral, so I would borrow on the machinery and try to expand a little at a time."

Some 50 percent of Ladner Farms' crops are contracted for harvest and most of his cattle are forward contracted.

"We know about three to four months in advance what our prices will be. We can't wait until we're ready to sell to find a market because we're moving too many cattle at one time," Ladner explained.

Ladner is now president of the Harrison County Farm Bureau and board member of the Federal Land Bank in Hattiesburg.

The bustling Ladner Farms enterprise represents a new breed of farmers and ranchers who through sound leadership, keen management and scientific farming methods are building more efficient operations.

The Enshallah ranch has not only changed the horizon's contour near Nacaise Crossing, but also represents changing horizons for today's modern farmer.

MODERN COWBOY—After roping a calf, Ladner Farms' Ranch Hand Bud Smith makes an identifying mark on the young steer's ear. Smith uses a horse to work the cattle, but many of the Enshallah's ranch hands ride motorized trikes instead of horses.

Scalf, Compretta wedding plans told

KAREN ANN SCALF

Mrs. Edith Scalf Nichols of Louisville, Ky., announces the engagement of her daughter, Karen Ann Scalf, to David Arthur Compretta, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Compretta of Bay St. Louis.

The bride-elect attended Presentation Academy and the University of Louisville where she majored in photography. She is a member of National Professional Photographers Association and is presently self-employed as a free lance photographer.

The prospective groom, a graduate of Bay Senior High School, received a Bachelor of Science degree in mathematics and computer science from the University of Southern Mississippi.

He is presently employed with Lanier Business Products, Metairie, La. The wedding will be solemnized at 1 p.m. March 1 in Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

Laan tells Pass gardeners to preserve, arrange flowers

The Pass Christian Garden Club held its monthly meeting at the Pass Christian Isles Golf Club Thursday.

Guests speaker was Mrs. Miek Laan of "Flowers Plus" in New Orleans.

Rosamond Wallace, club president, said the annual flower show will be April 17. A committee composed of Virginia Blankenship, Edith DeVries, Pat Law and Rosamond Wallace will be in charge.

Mrs. Wallace will conduct a class April 1 for members, demonstrating basic balance and conditioning of flowers for arrangements.

The energy-saving award was presented to Olga Guilbault for bringing five people to the meeting in her car.

This award will be presented monthly.

Culture chairman Sue Haines advised gardeners to use their almanacs for best planting schedules.

She also recommended planting marigolds in with tomato plants to help prevent nematodes.

Prepare seeds for planting by soaking first in warm water for about 24 hours.

"Preservation and arrangements of Flowers" was the matter of Mrs. Miek Laan, a native of Holland.

Her opening statements concerned the pitcher plants which she remembers being so plentiful in the Clermont Harbor, Bay St. Louis, Pass Christian area when she first visited the Coast a number of years ago.

These plants are on the endangered list now and should be well protected.

All types of plants and flowers can be successfully dried either by air-drying, in sand and borax, or, by using silica gel which Mrs. Laan prefers because of the drying process is shorter with the gel.

She uses a large enough container, which can be sealed, pours approximately an inch of gel in the bottom of the container, picks her flower, removes most of stem and all leaves, places flower face up in the gel, then gently pours gel around flower until completely covered.

The lid is then placed on the container and it is set aside for one to three weeks depending on the type of flower. Zinnias, hydrangeas, ageratum and sunflowers all dry beautifully retaining much of their color, she reported.

There are about 20 varieties of grasses in this area which dry successfully.

These should be picked early in the season for good drying purposes.

They should hang in a dark cool place until dry. Spraying with hairspray or lacquer will keep grasses from shedding.

In arranging the dried flowers, remember they shrink so make allowances for this.

Chose containers carefully and as a rule use three contrasting colors to keep arrangements from being boring.

A Valentine tea which was hosted by Mrs. H.L. Hammett and Mrs. R.L. Stewart, was served when the meeting adjourned.

(Submitted by Mrs. Harry Wittmann, acting publicity chairman.)
